

NWC BLOG

Lead APO Analyst:

Michael Biddick

December 26, 2007

Nimsoft Flexes Its Dashboard

By Michael Biddick

Performance management software vendor Nimsoft has gone a step further in the industry to increase the usability of monitoring the health of complex IT environments.

Last week, Nimsoft introduced the NimBUS Enterprise Console 2.0, which delivers a next-generation dashboard based on the Adobe Flex platform. The benefit of a rich Internet application interface increases the ease of building customized dashboards to reflect organizations' business priorities.

Additionally, more intuitive dashboards reduce costs associated with training and expertise because of the highly intuitive nature of the graphical interface.

The updated dashboard has new functions, including a drag-and-drop capability to create extremely complex views, customized backgrounds, and different color schemes.